Domaine Pierreclos Macon Pierreclos

Domaine Pierreclos Mâcon-Pierreclos is a Chardonnay from the southern Mâconnais in Burgundy. It has a lovely balance of fresh fruit and gentle richness, with green apple, ripe pear and citrus alongside a subtle buttery character. The palate is rounded and softly textured, but retains enough freshness to keep it lively. There is no heavy oak influence here; the emphasis is on the fruit, with a little extra weight and creaminess that makes it a particularly appealing style of white Burgundy.

Talking Point:
Pierreclos is a village in the Mâconnais, a part of Burgundy where Chardonnay is the dominant white grape. It sits close to the famous Roche de Solutré, a dramatic limestone escarpment that has become one of the landmarks of southern Burgundy. The area is known for producing Chardonnay with a little more generosity and ripeness than the cooler northern parts of the region, while retaining the freshness that makes Burgundy whites so appealing.
